

SERIES PROTECTION DEVICE FOR A TELEPHONE LINE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A series device for protection against a heating of a parallel protection element of an equipment of a telephone line, including a bi-directional cut-off element, of normally on state and placed in series with the parallel protection element, a temperature detection element, and a switching element adapted to turning off the cut-off element when the temperature detected by the detection element exceeds a predetermined threshold.

859063 495/59707Appl-v1